Depression says nothing will help, so there is no point starting. This page is where you check. Often the after number is a little higher than the before number — not fixed, just a little higher. A page of small differences is worth more than any promise.

If nothing feels good

That is a symptom, not a verdict on your life. The point of this page is not to enjoy things on demand. It is to keep doing a few of them while the enjoyment is offline, because that is usually how it comes back — slowly, and after the doing, not before.

Worth checking

If most weeks have looked like this for a while, that is worth telling a doctor. Take these pages with you. Describing it is hard; showing it is easier.
