

Start here.

Nine pages written for days when there is very little in the tank. Page one can be finished in two minutes, and finishing it counts.

1 WHAT IS IN YOUR DOWNLOAD

4 fillable sets

4 print sets

Page 1 is the daily

This guide

Letter + A4 · colour + ink-saving mono · 9 pages each the same pages without form fields page 8 is the safety plan — fill it in early how to use it, and what it is not

2 PLEASE READ THIS PART FIRST

This is a journal. It is not therapy, treatment, diagnosis or medical care, and it cannot replace them.

Depression is treatable and it is not a character flaw; if you have not spoken to a doctor about how you have been feeling, that is the single most useful thing on this list. If you are thinking about ending your life, or you do not feel safe, contact your local emergency number or a crisis line now. Page 8 is where you write those numbers down — do it today, while you can, not on the night you need them.

3 HOW TO USE IT ON A BAD DAY

Page 1, and nothing else. Tick what happened — got up, drank water, took your medication. Those are the entries. Page 2 is worth filling in on a steadier day, so that on a flat one you are reading a plan instead of making one. Page 3 is the slow one that pays off: do something, rate how you felt before and after, and let the page show you what actually helps.

4 PRINT IT WELL

- Paper: plain A4 or US Letter, 90–120 gsm
- Scale: 100% / Actual size — never “Fit to page”
- Print ten copies of page 1 at once, and page 8 twice — one for the wall
- Saving ink? The mono set is the same layout with no colour

5 IF SOMEONE GAVE YOU THIS

If you are supporting someone, these pages are easier to fill in together than alone, and the ones that matter most are page 8 and page 6. Do not use them to check up on someone or to measure their progress. A journal that becomes homework stops being useful.